Financial Assistance for Participation in Major International Scientific Conferences

The National Academy of Agricultural Sciences has initiated a scheme for providing travel assistance to Indian scientists for attending major International Scientific Conferences.

Under this scheme a scientist who is interested to avail of assistance from the Academy for participation in International Scientific Conference abroad in the field of agriculture, may send formal request in the prescribed application form. Preference will be given to young scientists (below 45 years) who have not gone abroad earlier. The candidate must apply on the prescribed proforma, through his/her employers at least three months prior to the date of commencement of the conference. The applications must contain the following enclosures:

- (i) Abstract of his/her presentation along with proof of its acceptance, and
- (ii) Evidence of grant offered by the organizers and/or employer to him/her for participation in the conference.

The assistance will be provided by the Academy on the merits of each case and importance of the Conference.

Application forms can be had from:
